First at the pump

George London (pictured) has the distinction of being the first customer to use the newly installed Marton New World self-service petrol pumps.

George, who organises the Marton Community Patrol, says using it was very easy and he has a few words for locals who are a bit anti using the people-less new petrol service. "On behalf of the local Marton Community Patrol, I wish to congratulate Brendon Shoebridge and his wife Tracey, on introducing the new, self-service petrol concept to Marton.

"New World has been a major sponsor of our patrol since its inception and their continued support has allowed us to operate and safeguard the community. The self-service pump system is new to Marton and I'm sure once we are familiar with it, it will become second nature to us all. The community needs to recognise and acknowledge the charitable work and generosity that Brendon and his wife have shown in the Rangitikei, over a number of years."

Lions flower baskets

Peter Crawford was busy installing rows of decorative, hanging flower baskets in Marton's Broadway this week - in time for Marton Market Day on Saturday. Lions Club members and others grew the special baskets which are trialling petunias, as other flower varieties were attacked by aphids last year. Peter also maintains the watering system.

VIEWPOINT

A teacher's view

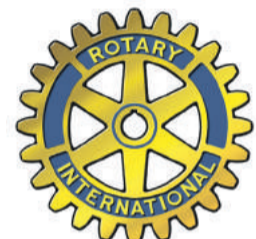

I was discussing recently with a colleague the recent round of negotiations (re teachers condions and wages) and, as usual, we were quite disheartened with all of the talks about money and nothing else. In these situations, teachers always come off looking like the culprits, simply because the public is distracted by the sleight of hand of the government waving dollar signs around in their right hand while holding sickening conditions in their left behind their back. We decided that it is time we shone a light on why we fight so hard. Unfortunately (or fortunately for the government), we are bound by confidentiality and therefore are unable to tell the public what was discussed in our recent meeting. However, I can tell them why I personally fight so hard. Thanks for reading.

Rotary shows new residents around

The Rotary Club of Marton hosted a bus tour of town and country around Marton ,for more than thirty new residents on Sunday. Hailing from Pukekohe, Tauranga, Te Awamutu, Hawkes Bay, Whanganui, Wellington, Timaru and Queensland and many places in between, the district newbies were treated to a commentary as they passed by buildings and business points of interest throughout the town. They then travelled the Pourewa Valley and Mount Curl, getting a taste of our beautiful rural Rangitikei. The tour ended with a visit to St Stephen's historic church and afternoon tea. Andrew Shand from Maton Rotary says, "It was a very successful trip which I think they all enjoyed. Amazing how many new folk are coming to live here."

G-Mech - new on the block

G-Mech opened for business in mid-October, offering mechanical services and light engineering.

It's located in an historic building at 8 Hammond St in Marton. It has an engineering history as the former Nielsen's Engineering so G-Mech has retained some of the historic features, including keeping the original name etched on the outside.

Brad Glasgow is the name behind G-Mech. He is a fully qualified automotive mechanic, with 20 years' experience in the industry and with roots in light engineering.

Brad says he has been working towards opening his own business for some time but now the time is right.

He began his career under Tom Lawlor at Lawlor and Bowler Motors at Mt View near Marton and over the years, worked at four different companies, doing a wide variety of vehicle mechanics, from trailers and agricultural machinery, to race cars. He has also specialised in classic cars.

He has a personal history of working on modified performance vehicles and now he is ready to work on any type of vehicle, as well as providing light engineering – a G-Mech service which is already proving popular.

“Since opening, I have already seen a lot of light engineering work come in the door, which is positive, but I am happy to look at any job,” says Brad. He has broad auto mechanical knowledge and is well worth a visit if you need his help.

G-Mech also stocks batteries and tyres and covers mechanical and WOF repairs, tune ups, auto electrical and exhaust work, welding and aluminium welding.

G-Mech is open weekdays and Saturday mornings.

50 year design career

Garth Emerson has been an integral part of the Gallagher company in Marton for the past 50 years and had a hand in designing groundbreaking petrol pump technology.

Garth started work at Production Engineering Ltd (now Gallagher) soon after leaving school 50 years ago - on 11.11.1968. In those days, the company operated both a cast iron and aluminium foundry, a hark back to production contracts during WW2.

As a young teenager, originally employed as an apprentice fitter and turner, he was quickly invited to become an apprentice toolmaker, working under the guidance of company founder, Reg Williams and Snow (Arthur) Campbell.

Garth says even before being employed there, he used to take a sneaky look in the back door of the original workshop when it was situated on Wellington Rd, where the Rangitikei Squash courts are now located. One employed by the firm he began learning all the disciplines of engineering and hydraulics, producing production jigs and fixtures plus casting patterns for the foundry. He also served time on the production lathes, mills an drilling machines in the workshop.

"It was health and safety nightmare compared to the present day," he says.

Garth's first introduction to the design side of the company was when he helped Reg design and productionise an Auto-Stop Petrol Pump Nozzle. Then he travelled around NZ servicing and installing this revolutionary dispensing nozzle.

His next major step was moving to the "front of the building" where he played a major part in designing and productionising the EMPEC 80 electronic petrol pump. It was a big step forward in petrol pump technology worldwide, replacing the mechanical counters with LCD displays and introducing microprocessor-controlled pumps. It was said that John Williams had to mortgage his house to pay for just four huge microprocessors from Silicon Valley for the original pump development and they were locked away each night.

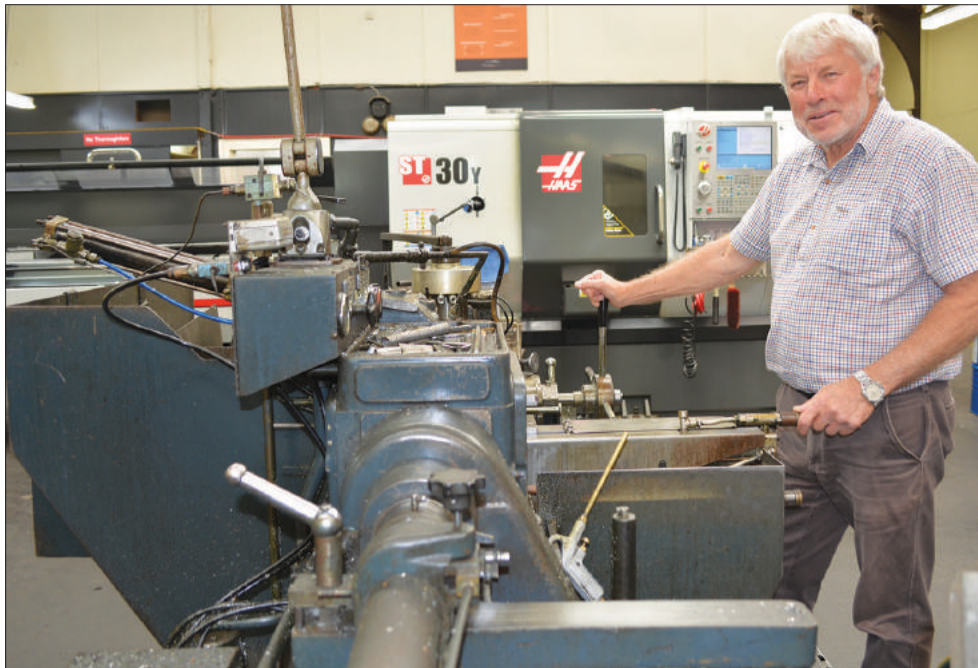

Garth has had a hand in every pump model produced since, until recently, when the new generation Pulse range, currently produced at Gallagher, but he still carries out pump reviews to ensure they are fit for purpose.

He says, "I also worked on product brochures and manuals. In fact, I think I have done most jobs in the company except the banking."

Garth says the number of staff he has seen come and go is mind boggling.

The Gallagher Group took over in May 1999. He has also seen several general managers, including Reg Williams, John Williams, Tony Dobbs and currently, Richard Coxon. Garth says there is very little of the original building left untouched in Station Rd. It has changed around Garth, being remodelled and added to, over the last 50 years.

Garth's main focus at present is working in Vapour Recovery equipment. It involves capturing the vapour from a car fuel tank, during refilling, before it enters the atmosphere, then metering the vapour and retaining it. And like most of Garth's

In 50 years Garth Emerson has seen lathes change from the Peg Board programmed machinery in the foreground to the electronic CNC Haas version in the background.

He has seen company communications improve from a shared memo on a piece of paper on your desk's in and out trays, to today's instant computer contact, internally and externally. The first administration System 36 Computer commissioned, filled an entire room. Then faxes came along and communication progressed from there.

"We used to have to go the to the Marton Railway Station which had its own Telex machine to send a message and it took 24 hours to get a reply on a paper tape." Progressing from a toolmaker to high tech designer took a lot of investigation and research, "Research material had to be sourced from the USA. We ordered magazines to study. You couldn't look up the internet, as it didn't exist."

Gallagher has built a proud reputation for innovation and quality and Garth is big part of that. The company currently carries out many specialised and intricate contacts for the high technology New Zealand Businesses. Now, 75 percent of what the company produces is sold overseas.

Garth was surprised by a company presentation and party last Wednesday to honour his 50 year service.

He watched conatulatory videos from work mates, contractors and company offices all over the world, along with Sir William Gallagher, the owner of the Gallagher Group. Garth was also thrilled by the arrival of his two sons who were flown in from Australia to join him along with his daughter who lives locally. It was an emotional event for him as he recently lost his wife Christine to cancer but he was thrilled his family were by his side.

He says, "There has been a great bunch of people throughout my career. I've been supported by a lot of people who have helped me, trained me and become good Friends. There is still a great bunch of enthusiastic people working here today who support both myself and the company."

He says he has a couple of years working still left in him, but he is looking towards a future in retirement.

A BIGGER AND BETTER MARTON MARKET DAY

Marton Market Day is on this Saturday, starting at 10am and it will be bigger and better than ever, according to organisers Project Marton.

The number of stalls is stacking up for what they describe as Marton's annual street party (Broadway is closed off) complete with live music, roving entertainment, cultural performances and amazing stalls. Marton Park has stalls and entertainment too.

Marton Market Day is a colourful and festive day out, which attracts thousands of visitors from across the country. It's a great opportunity to get some of your Christmas shopping done and to find some unique gifts - with over 200 stalls selling a range of amazing products including jewellery, children's toys, garden art and furniture, artisan foods, plants and a whole lot more.

Marton retailers will also have some great specials on offer on the day and there will be plenty of free activities for the kids. The streets and market aisles will showcase amazing performances from street artists.

This year, the hilarious stunt comic, Joel Fenton and the crazy wanna-be-superstar, Vinyl Burns are coming along to share some of their crazy antics. African drummers, Manawataki, will be providing rhythmic beats and Manawatu's Samba Ao Vento will add their Brazilian flavour to the carnival atmosphere.

Throughout the day, there will be giveaways, performances from local schools, a skateboarding competition, a highland dancing competition, amazing dog agility demonstrations and the White Ribbon Riders are coming on their motorbikes at 10am.

Get there early so you don't miss out on all the things to see and bargains to buy. Bing your family and friends for one of Rangitikei's biggest days out!

White Ribbon Riders joining market day

Anti-violence organisations are calling for local men to stand up and join the White Ribbon Riders when they roll into Marton on Saturday 24 November.

The White Ribbon Ride will attend the Marton Market Day. Two riders and the local mayor will address the crowd and there will be an opportunity for people to ask questions and see the motorbikes. The riders will arrive at 9.30am and depart at 11.30am for the next stop on their ride down the NI. The White Ribbon Ride is part of November's White Ribbon campaign, raising awareness and support to end men's violence towards women. This year, the campaign is focusing on getting men to stand up and get involved by taking The Pledge.

White Ribbon manager Rob McCann explains, 'White Ribbon wants men to take The Pledge, which means getting men taking real action. To take The Pledge online, men will have to choose between one of eight actions to listen, reflect, alter their behaviour, talk to others and disrupt negative behaviour - all of which build respectful behaviour that undermines violence.'

The ride began in 2009 and now reaches over 80 communities in November and will pass through Marton on a motorcycle ride that covers thousands of kilometres. Anyone can join the ride, providing they have a current licence, a warranted bike with a minimum engine size of 250cc and is willing to make the pledge never to commit, condone or remain silent about violence towards women. Local riders are also welcome.

Ōroua River recognised at NZ River Awards

Horizons Regional Council councillor Colleen Sheldon accepted a NZ River Award on Tuesday night for the Ōroua River.

The awards celebrate waterways showing long-term trend improvements in water quality. A panel of NZ scientists judged the awards using long-term data stored on the Land Air Water Aotearoa (LAWA) website - www.lawa.org.nz.

This year's awards focussed on dissolved reactive phosphorus (DRP) improvements. The Ōroua River was the most improved in the Horizons Region and second most improved nationally, with a 13.3 percent improvement. Other water quality indicators including total nitrogen, E.coli, and turbidity are also improving at this site, while the MCI state is fair, with a score of 95. This is the second 'most improved' award for the Ōroua since 2014 - for improving DRP trends.

Horizons natural resources and partnerships group manager Dr Jon Roygard says the site is part of the regional council's extensive monitoring programme that measures water quality parameters upstream and downstream of major point discharge sources throughout the region. "The improved DRP levels are a great result."

Manawatū District Council has significantly invested in upgrading their wastewater treatment plant over time. "Partial funding has also come from central government through the Manawatū River Leaders' Accord's Fresh Start for Freshwater Clean-up project." Upgrade works included the reconstruction of existing ponds and the addition of clarification units, ongoing alum dosing to remove phosphorus and residual suspended solids and enhancing the standard of disinfection achieved by the UV disinfection system. This summer the plant has begun irrigating all treated wastewater to land for six months of the year while the Ōroua River levels are low.

CLUB SCENE

Marton Music Society

The Marton Music Society will present their final concert for the year on Sunday November 25 at 2pm at the Friendship Hall, Morris St. The afternoon of musical variety will include chamber music, opera and light opera, piano solos and Christmas carols.

Singing has always been part of soprano Ashley Holland's life. She grew up in Bulls and, as a child, sang before she could talk. She started singing lessons at the age of twelve and has been a member of many choirs and performed in musical theatre, competitions and for weddings. She will be performing 'Think of Me' from Phantom of the Opera and 'O Mio Babino Caro' by Puccini as well as contemporary songs. She is a teacher at Nga Tawa and her accompanist will be David Tipi. Local musicians Marta Barham, Leah Bronn and Robin Rutherford will perform a movement from Mozart's melodious piano trio K564 and pianists Leah Bronn and Vicki Beckwith will play works by Rachmaninov and modern Italian composer Einaudi. The afternoon will conclude with some well-loved Christmas carols for all to join in which will be accompanied by Sarah Hunt. Everyone is very welcome and a Christmas afternoon tea will be served. Admission is by donation.

Marton Friendship Club

Friday November 16; entertained by John White. Len & Ron. Mainly country music and everyone knew all the words to every tune. What a lot of pleasure John's songs and band gives this club. Sugar in the Morning, Kentucky Waltz, China Doll and many more. Robin loves to sing us her I Love Honey and Money and Your Automobile with cheeky gusto, it is always a lot of fun. November 23 we shall have a new group to entertain called For Folks Sake. They were recommended by Bulls Friendship Club, so come along and find out how good they are. Visitors welcome. Hall in Morris St, Marton and opens at 12.30pm; main programme starts 2pm. Raffles won by Sheila Clark, Billy Paisley, Roka Edwards, Jean England and Audrey Thompson. See you all on Friday.

South Rangitikei Schools' Community of Learning/Kāhui Ako Update Term 4

Building Capacity Hui snapshots.

This year has been one of consolidating our direction and celebrating the work we have done towards being a truly collaborative group of schools. We have reworked our Achievement Challenge document and the schools now feel there is a stronger connection between what we can't achieve on our own, but strive to achieve as a collective. The three main challenges now read:

1. Build Teacher & Learner Efficacy
2. Develop & Strengthen Cultural Revitalisation
3. Develop our Localised Curriculum through Place Based Learning

We are very excited to have the Early Childhood Centres across the region signing up to be a part of our Kāhui Ako - their voice is vital in the bigger picture. This has been a challenge, but we haven't shied away from it and now we can see a pathway. Our next big challenge is to authentically engage with Iwi. We consider our Achievement Challenge document to be one that can grow and develop as the needs of our Community of Learning grow. There isn't a 'wrong time' to engage with other sectors and we are excited about creating pathways with clear Iwi connections. Our commitment to developing a localised curriculum of Place Based Learning aligns with our aspirations for our tamariki and the more we reach out to the community, the wider the lens of opportunity for our children. If you have something to add to this space, please send comments, questions and enquiries to me on the email below. I invite and welcome all ideas that support the positive momentum we are beginning to see happen, as we move from the establishing phase into the developing phase.

Email: office@bulls.school.nz with Kāhui Ako in the subject line.

TAIHAPE GOLF CLUB

A glorious spring Sunday afternoon greeted a strong field of locals for the par haggle round. In joint first position were the part time golfers John Fenemor and Peter Valentine, with plus 5. Valentine also played the quarter final of the Joblin Cup and succeeded on the last, against the sleep deprived new dad Hamish Rose. On plus 3 was Barrie Randall while John Gilbert made plus 2. A three way tie for 5th on plus 1 were Gary Thomas, Alan Thomas and Richard Millner. Gary Cleaver was square overall and on minus 1 were Hamish Rose, Briany Bristol, Denis Robertson, A Sprayer, JJ Walker and also new dad David Pollard. Twos were recorded on the 14th by Hamish Rose, Peter Valentine, Denis Robertson and Richard Millner. The Manawatu Wanganui Golf Association held the 36 hole champion of champions at Waimarino Golf Club on Sunday. Representing Taihape was Matt Booth (seniors) who shot 75 75, with nets of 70 70. Danny Mickleson (intermediates) 84 91, with nets of 70 77. Jim Fannin (juniors) 88 85, with nets of 70 67. Taihape finished in 4th place, with James Fannin winning the best overall gross score in the junior division. This Sunday the Danny Mickleson (Taihape Tigers) sponsored shootout is scheduled. Tee time for the 19 best qualifiers is 9am. At 12 noon there is the 9 hole open champion contest (for the newly introduced Smith Cup) for all members not in the shootout and for the 9 shootout participants who fail to make it through to the last 9 holes.

NZ OVER 60s CRICKET

Two NZ teams participated in last week's Australian veterans' state championships in Penrith, New South Wales. Both teams were unbeaten in section play matches, with 3 wins from 3 and qualified for the final in their respective divisions. The NZ A team competed in division 2 and NZ B in division 3. NZ A played Queensland in its final and in a very exciting finish, won with a ball to spare. They chased down 240 to take out NZ's first ever trophy in this event. NZ B played New South Wales in its final and, after posting 180, went down in another close finish; NSW winning with 2 overs remaining. While he enjoyed the week immensely, Marton's Allan Pond (playing in the B team) had a disappointing week, performance-wise; posting scores of 13, 11 and 4 in his 3 turns at bat. He took 0 for 53 from the 10 overs he bowled during the tournament. Next year's championships will be held in Adelaide, South Australia.

JUNIOR CRICKET

Friday night cricket 'got cracking' last Friday at Centennial Park. Twelve teams, from years 2-8, played some great cricket in what was lovely cricket playing weather. There were some very competitive games, featuring first time cricketers as well as experienced players. We look forward to an exciting, action packed few rounds leading up to Christmas. Thank you to Higgins and McDonalds for the player of the day prizes. Also, a big thanks to the parents who came and supported the players and to James Cook School for its fantastic support. We do have room for a few more school teams.

MARTON SARACENS CRICKET

Matt Burke Engineering Marton Saracens suffered losses in both of the first two rounds of Wanganui Cricket's T20 competition. On Saturday 10 November they hosted Wanganui Wicket Warriors at Centennial Park. The visitors batted first and scored 126 for 8 in their turn at bat. Jayden Lane took 2 for 24 from his 4 overs, Robert Daines 2 for 29, Rhys Watson 1 for 17 and Freddie Lane 1 for 26. Two run-outs completed the wicket haul. At their turn at bat, Saracens could only manage 79 for 6 in their 20 overs. Mike Jacobs top-scored, being run out for 17. Daines was not out 15 at the end, Freddie Lane and Thomas Westwood both contributed 12. On Saturday 17 November, Saracens travelled to Wanganui, where they met Kaitoke at Victoria Park. A much better batting performance saw the Marton side reach 120 for 8 in its 20 overs. Westwood made 34, Jayden Lane 25, Daines 13, captain Phil Galpin 11 and Michael Thompson 11. Kaitoke made easy work of the chase however, reaching 123 for 4 wickets, in just the 14th over. Jayden Lane took 2 for 30 and Daines 2 for 21. This Saturday sees a return to the 40 over competition, with Matt Burke Engineering taking on Wanganui Collegiate at the Collegiate ground.

THE HUNTERVILLE BOWLING CLUB

The programme for Hunterville bowlers on 17 November was to play their champion pairs competition. The weather was kind, the green perfect and the teams were drawn, so our members were ready to play all through this Saturday and next to find their champion. In the men's pair's championships, Ken Mason and Paul Peterson still have two lives to play. Don Evans and Tim McCarthy, Dave Ericksen and Don Gregory, have 1 life left. Winners of the women's championships pairs were Denise Evans and Lois Rowe, with the runner up team being Helen King and Tania Eldridge.
